ABOUT THE EVENT

Smart growth attracts many people from a variety of endeavors. This conference is about coordinating the interests of this diverse group to help us all begin to speak the same language and paddle in the same direction.

Los Angeles provides the perfect backdrop for this premier national smart growth event. The Southern California region offers an excellent laboratory for a close examination of sprawl's impacts and long-term implications as well as innovative policies and successful projects that address the significant growth and development challenges this region is facing. Attendees will find a region reinventing itself as a place filled with opportunities to live, work and play in urban and rural landscapes.

The 2007 program will span 3 full days and feature cutting-edge smart growth issues, the latest research, implementation tools and strategies, successful case studies, interactive learning experiences, new partners, new projects and new policies. Most importantly, this dynamic event offers you the opportunity to network and coordinate with your peers as well as practitioners from many different disciplines with the same goal — building safe, healthy and livable communities for all.

“The New Partners gathering is, by far, the best opportunity in the country to plug into the best minds and the freshest ideas for making healthier and more successful communities. It has the most diverse range of attendees and the most practical ‘try this at home’ advice you can get.” — Rick Cole, City Manager of Ventura, CA
